Project Retrospective

Date: 11/21/2021

We started creating classes and the API this week. As a team we assigned and tracked our tasks pretty well and kept on pace with ourselves. Setting achievable goals and meeting them within the standards we set.

As we move deeper into the development phase we should expect to have more intricate conversation about how certain parts of the project will have to interact. Internally presenting our code to each other may be a good way to review and learn from each other's coding skills.
