Team Retrospective

Date: 12/5/21

       I think we collaborated well this week to achieve the weekly goals. The live demo/coding was a good practice for everyone to experience. Shoutout to Ian for all the help We also not only played to our strengths, but allowed others to improve their weaknesses through the review process and assisted coding.

       There was some confusion about who was supposed to be doing what task this week. As the project progresses, this will become a more prevalent issue as tasks will become increasingly intertwined with each other. In the future, we should make sure that individual tasks are clearly defined and delegated.